Spring Cleaning

As most of us are stuck inside during these challenging times, it does give us all time to do some Spring Cleaning and car washing/detailing. If the kids or spouses are driving you crazy put them to work. 😊

We also recommend going out for a walk in our neighborhood and getting some fresh air. A cool idea for our community to still get outside and do something fun, without touching or coughing on each other, is to do a scavenger hunt. Since Easter is on it's way we can start with that.

All you have to do is put an Easter egg in your window. That's it! Color it, paint it, cut it out, print it from the printer, whatever. Then go outside, walk around and see how many Eggs you can find!

It's easy. No human contact. Get fresh air. Of course, this idea works for any kind of scavenger hunt.

Do you need ventilators?

Does your hospital or healthcare facility need a ventilator and it cannot get one? Please let Ken know and he will put you in touch with the person at Tesla that has extra ventilators that Tesla is shipping out to any facility that needs one. No guarantees that Tesla won't run out, but they are trying to get them into the hands of facilities that really need them, NOT to be stocked up in a storage facility somewhere.

Model Y!

It's out and being delivered and it's a beauty. With everything going on it may be a while before many of us see one in person but in the spirit of not overwhelming the Tesla store, please avoid going or calling the store asking to see the Model Y. They do NOT have a demo car there and won't have one for a few months. If they get a Model Y it will be a customer car and those are going to be covered and awaiting their owners.

Get your Cybertruck before anyone else!

Mattel has come out with not one, but two remote controlled Cybertrucks. You can find them here.
Now we're just waiting for an official LEGO one ;-)
